Behavioral Health &
Developmental Services

VDH VIRGINIA
DEPARTMENT
OF HEALTH

Dear Stakeholders,

The Virginia Department of Health's Suicide Prevention Program and the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services are pleased to present the 5th edition of the Virginia Suicide Prevention Resource Directory, updated for 2020. This directory is designed to provide an easy to use reference of programs available in Virginia to assist individuals who may need suicide prevention resources.

The directory provides a list of available resources that are needed when people are impacted by suicide. The directory is organized into the following categories: hotlines, community mental health centers, statewide mental health facilities, coalitions, support groups, and resources. Whenever possible, all known national, state, and local resources are provided.

If you know of a resource that should be added to the directory please let us know. This directory is by no means complete and any needed updates will be made on a regular basis. Requests for changes or additions to the Virginia Suicide Prevention Resource Directory should be directed to Alisha Anthony at 804-864-7868 or Alisha.Anthony@vdh.virginia.gov.

Copies of this document are available for download through the Youth Suicide Prevention Program's website, www.VDHLiveWell.com/suicide

Thank you for being a part of our suicide prevention efforts. Together we can decrease the impact of this preventable public health crisis in our families, communities and Virginia.

Respectfully,

Each Veteran's Affairs Medical Center in the state employs a Suicide Prevention Coordinator. VA Suicide Prevention Coordinators (SPC) are specialized case managers who ensure that veterans at high risk of suicide receive the care they need. Furthermore, they are involved in training and education, both within the VA and in the community. Contact information for local VA Suicide Prevention Coordinators can be found below: For the most updated information on Suicide Prevention contacts, please go to: <https://www.veteranscrisisline.net/GetHelp/ResourceLocator.aspx> Select Suicide Prevention Coordinators, and then add zip code or state to search.

Regional Suicide Prevention Initiative

The Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services (DBHDS) supports regional suicide prevention initiatives across the Commonwealth of Virginia. These initiatives extend the reach and impact of suicide prevention efforts, afford greater access to suicide prevention resources by affected communities, and leverage and reduce costs for individual localities related to training and other suicide prevention strategies. This initiative resulted in the establishment of six regional suicide prevention coalitions comprised of diverse stakeholders that align with the Community Service Board (CSB) service areas. For more information on the regional initiative, please contact the individual groups.

Survivors of Suicide Loss Support Groups and Resources

Support groups are meant as a support to someone who has lost a loved one to suicide. Participation in a suicide loss group can help at a time when nothing seems to help. Support groups can vary greatly; meeting times and locations can change.

The American Foundation for Suicide Prevention maintains a page with resources for survivors and listing of support groups by locality

<http://afsp.org/find-support/ive-lost-someone/>

The American Association of Suicidology maintains a resource page for survivors of suicide loss

Campus Based Suicide Prevention

The Campus Suicide Prevention Center of Virginia

The Campus Suicide Prevention Center of Virginia is part of a statewide effort, coordinated by the Virginia Department of Health, to reduce risk for suicide on Virginia's college and university campuses. Specifically, this program supports the individuals and teams on each campus as they build the infrastructure necessary to promote mental health for all within a campus community, promote help-seeking and treatment options for those with mental health concerns, increase awareness and early identification of suicide risk, and effectively respond to individuals who are at risk for suicide.

About Suicide

Most suicidal individuals give some warning of their intentions. The most effective way to prevent a friend or loved one from taking his or her life is to recognize the factors that put people at risk for suicide, to take warning signs seriously and know how to respond.

Recognize the Imminent Dangers

Fifty to 75 percent of all suicides give some warning of their intentions to a friend or family member. Imminent signs must be taken seriously.

The signs that most directly warn of suicide include:

- o Threatening to hurt or kill oneself
- o Looking for ways to kill oneself (weapons, pills or other means)
- o Talking or writing about death, dying or suicide
- o Has made plans or preparations for a potentially serious attempt

Other warning signs can include:

- o Insomnia
- o Intense anxiety, usually exhibited as psychic
- o Pain or internal tension, as well as panic attacks
- o Feeling desperate or trapped -- like there's no way out
- o Feeling hopeless
- o Feeling there's no reason or purpose to live
- o Rage or anger
- o Acting reckless or engaging in risky activities
- o Engaging in violent or self-destructive behavior
- o Increasing alcohol or drug use
- o Withdrawing from friends or family

Ask

Directly and clearly ask the person in crisis if they are having thoughts of suicide. Do not be afraid to say the word suicide. Do not worry about planting the idea in the person's mind. Suicide is a crisis of non-communication and despair; by asking about it you allow for communication to occur and provide hope.

Listen

Do not attempt to argue someone out of suicide. Rather, let the person know you care, that he/she is not alone, that suicidal feelings are temporary and that depression can be treated. Avoid the temptation to say, "You have so much to live for," or "Your suicide will hurt your family."

Refer

Be actively involved in encouraging the person to see a physician or mental health professional immediately. Help the person find a knowledgeable mental health professional or a reputable treatment facility, and take them to the treatment.

In Cases of an Acute Crisis

If a friend or loved one is threatening, talking about or making plans for suicide, these are signs of an acute crisis.

- o Do not leave the person alone.
- o Remove from the vicinity any firearms, drugs or sharp objects that could be used for suicide.
- o Take the person to an emergency room or walk-in clinic at a psychiatric hospital.
- o If a psychiatric facility is unavailable, go to your nearest hospital or clinic.
- o If the above options are unavailable, call 911 or the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-TALK (8255).

Follow-up on Treatment

Suicidal individuals are often hesitant to seek help and may need your continuing support to pursue treatment after an initial contact. If medication is prescribed, make sure your friend or loved one is taking it exactly as prescribed. Be aware of possible side effects and be sure to notify the physician if the person seems to be getting worse. Usually, alternative medications can be prescribed. Frequently the first medication doesn't work. It can take time and persistence to find the right medication(s) and therapist for the individual person.

If you are worried about someone:

There is support and information available if you are worried about a loved one. The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline, 1-800-273-TALK (8255) has trained counselors available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to talk to you or your loved one. Here are additional links and resources:

The Steps of a Referral

Remember – a good referral is much more than passing along a name and telephone number. If you take the time to go through the steps of a referral, the person is more likely to follow through on getting help. Just a few extra minutes can make a big difference.

CONNECT

The first step is to link with the person, that is, to have contact with them. Whether it is over the phone, in person, or in writing, you first have to be in contact with someone before you can make a referral.

- o Spread the word that you know what mental health services are available in our community.
- o Be available. If people know how you can help and where you are, they are likely to turn to you when they are troubled.
- o At times, you will have to reach out to the troubled person first. Keep your eyes open to the signs of trouble, and connect with the person in need when you are concerned about what you see.

LISTEN & SHARE

You need to listen actively to understand not only the problem to be solved, but also the person who has the problem.

- o You can make the best referral when you know both the problem and the person. Even if someone asks only for the name and number of a specific referral, it is still wise to invite the person to talk more about the situation with you. You will likely be more helpful if you have some basic facts.
- o How you listen and share depends a lot on who made the initial link. If the person contacted you for a referral, he or she already recognizes that there is a problem and wants your assistance in finding the right kind of help. You can help them to keep moving along the right track.
- o On the other hand, if you started the referral process, you may be facing some special challenges at this point. For example, the person may be in denial, unwilling to admit that there is a problem. In such a situation, you need to share, without judging or condemning, exactly what you have observed in a calm, clear, and respectful way. Through this caring process, you may bring the person face-to-face with the problem.

PUSH For ACTION

Once there is a good understanding of the person and the problem, it is time to push for them to take action.

- o Usually, all a person needs is a gentle nudge in the right direction through simply talking about the types of help that are available.
- o Discuss several referrals whenever possible to give the person a choice.
- o Be specific and let the person know the who, what, when, where, and how of any referral. The more someone knows what to expect, the easier it will be for them to take action in getting help.

CHECK

The most common mistake in making referrals is the failure to check if the person followed through.

- o Ask the person to let you know what happens, even if she or he is a stranger on the phone.
- o Check back whenever possible if you have not heard from the person. It can be a powerful motivator for the person to take action.
- o Checking gives you another opportunity to link, and provide them with an opportunity to discuss any problems they might have with the referral.

When You Need Professional Help: A Referral Handout

Getting Help

At some point in our lives we all run into problems that seem too big or persistent to handle alone. Yet our pride and our fears can often get in the way of asking for help. However, making the decision to find help is a sign of strength and courage. In fact, it can make the difference between feeling that things are spinning out of control and gaining new tools to turn life around in positive ways.

If you have decided that you need professional help, you have already taken that first big step towards a better life. The next step is choosing a helper or program. The right helper can make a big difference as you go through the personal and sometimes painful process of change. However, most people spend more time buying a car than picking a professional helper. In fact, they often take the first name they get. While it is true that the sooner you get help the better, in many situations you can take a little time to choose the right help for you.

Some Tips to Follow

The purpose of this handout is to help you to make a choice that's best for you. Here are a few tips to follow:

- o See your primary care physician to rule out a medical cause of any problems. If your thyroid is "sluggish," for example, symptoms such as loss of appetite or fatigue could be mistaken for depression.
- o Ask people you trust for suggestions. Check with a family physician, minister, school counselor, friend, or relative.
- o Therapy is a collaborative process, so finding the right match is important. It's OK to "shop around," so feel free to call several helpers before you decide. Keep in mind that you and this person will be working as a team, and that you are the best judge of how comfortable you feel with this person.

- o Find out about the helper's training and experience with a particular problem. You can do this by asking the helper's receptionist. Since different psychotherapies are tailored to meet specific needs, the best therapists will work with you to create a treatment program that works for you.
- o Money is one of the factors you will need to consider. If you have insurance, check your coverage. Be sure to find out what mental health professionals it covers and if there is a ceiling level. If you cannot afford the fees of a private provider, then call one of the public helping agencies.
- o Time is another consideration. Can you arrange to meet with the helper at a convenient time? How frequently will you be meeting? How long is the treatment likely to last?
- o When you call a helper, find out all you need to know before making your decision. Ask about fees, how payment is to be made, how insurance is dealt with, how canceled appointments are handled, or any other information important to you.

Remember—you are buying a service and have a right to ask questions. And don't worry—professional helpers do not resent being asked these questions. They want you to make an informed decision about their services.

Once you have set up an appointment, be sure that you know practical details, such as how to find the office and where you can park. The more you know, the easier it will be to begin getting the help you need.

After you find someone, keep in mind that therapy is work and sometimes can be difficult. However, it can be rewarding and life-changing as well.

One last point—most people benefit from professional help, but even the best helpers will sometimes make a mistake. Usually when that happens, it's best to talk about it and give your helper a chance to respond to your feelings. If the mistake is serious enough, you may decide to find another helper. If you have a complaint, you can call the Virginia Department of Health Regulatory Boards at their toll-free number: 1-800-533-1560.
